ESPECIAL ATTENTION FALLS TO COLORED LEADERS FROM COOLIDGE'S ADMINISTRATION

Traditionally Republican Negro Voters of the South Are Anxious to Feel Pulse of New Executive and to Secure Maximum Number of Paying Jobs for Members of Race—Coolidge Turns Deaf Ear to "Lily White" Faction

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1923

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 — At the White House Wednesday President Coolidge received "a delegation of colored women."

This was the first of its kind since the new president took office. The women represented various organizations interested in improving the condition of the colored race. Ordinarily an engagement like this would not attract attention but lately there has been a noticeable stream of colored leaders visiting the executive offices, more than during the Harding administration. The reasons are matters of wide speculation tho the general impression is that the colored people are anxious to know exactly what the Coolidge administration is willing to do for them.

While the status of the colored people is always a sociological problem and efforts are constantly being made to improve their position the political phases have only lately became acute. The colored voters are almost all traditionally Republican and they expect the national administration when it is Republican to reward their brethren with offices whenever possible. The late President Harding sent to the senate the nominations of various colored leaders but the senate in most cases failed to confirm them due particularly to the long filibusters threatened or executed by Democratic senators. This, however, has not always appeased the political leaders of the colored race who have insisted that colored appointees be increased especially in those places which do not require the confirmation of the senate.

The dissatisfaction of the colored voters on this point has been growing in the last decade but with the southern states predominantly Democratic the disaffection of the colored race has not been politically dangerous for the Republicans tho there have been efforts to make the colored vote felt in northern states. In the years since the war the exodus of colored workmen from the south has increased perceptibly the registration of colored voters in northern states. Since the advent of woman suffrage, colored women have been able to double the

RUSSIAN TRADE IMPROVES, SAYS BRITISH VISITOR

Expenses Cut and Taxes Up, Says Baldwin After Tour

MAY CUT TAXES

One Bad Harvest Might Upset Good Prospects, He Declares

BY DAVID M. CHURCH

LONDON, Sept. 20—"Russia is recovering," declared F. L. Baldwin, brother of the Prime Minister, who has recently returned from a trip of business investigation in Russia.

"It is going to be a slow business, the recovery of Russia, but I am very hopeful," said Baldwin. "A single bad harvest might upset everything, of course, but there is a good sporting chance.

"The thing that strikes me is the extraordinary way with which the Russians are struggling with the financial situation. They are cutting down their expenditures very heavily and pushing up their taxes. In fact, they fear they have put their taxes up too high and that they may have to bring them down again.

"Income taxes range from 2½ per cent to 20 per cent, and they have placed a tax of about 3 per cent on the turnover of the business community, which seems to be the equivalent of our corporation profit tax.

"The Russians are trying to establish their currency on a chervonetz basis. A chervonetz is the equivalent of our pound.

"In the promotion of Russian trade the Soviet Government is subordinating everything else to the development of agriculture. They would like to import a lot of agricultural machinery, for their processes are still very primitive. We saw people cutting corn with hand-sickles during our journey from Moscow to Petrograd. But even their imports of agricultural machinery would be held down by their policy of maintaining a favorable trade balance.

"If they had any money to spend abroad, which at the moment they have not, they would spend it first on agricultural machinery, then on the repair of rolling stock and railways, and then on such things as saw-milling plants and mining apparatus."

Baldwin said that very few of the Moscow population looked poverty stricken and everybody seemed to be working. The change from State to private control is now well advanced, he said.

SLEMP VIEWED AS COOLIDGE'S "LIAISON" CHIEF

Expected to Be Intermediary Between President and Congress

KNOWS CAPITAL

Striking Contrast Between Slemp, Southerner; Coolidge, Yankee

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 — Having recovered somewhat from the initial shock of Calvin Coolidge's selection of a Presidential Secretary, the national capital has settled down to watch the working out of an interesting White House experiment.

C. Bascome Slemp is the first Congressman to hold the important job of being Secretary to the President—a job that many consider of greater responsibility than a Cabinet office. He comes to the white-house fresh from sixteen years in the House, and with an acquaintance in that body that is best described by the fact that he calls most of the members by their first names.

There are few men in either branch of Congress, or elsewhere for that matter, more deeply steeped in politics than Bascom Slemp. He is frankly and openly a politician. Joe Tumulty was a little known New Jersey lawyer when he came into the post; George Christian was even less known; but Bascom Slemp knows the rank and file of the Republican party as do few other men. He is the first man to hold the position to whom the description "political secretary" could be fittingly applied.

Consequently Washington looks upon his appointment as an experiment—and an extremely interesting one.

The vast majority of a President's problems relate to Con

BULGARIAN COMMUNISTS IN BLOODY REVOLT ESTABLISH A PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT

Backbone of Rebellion Reported Broken by Regular Troops — Neither Side Take Prisoners—Neighboring Balkan States Accused of Giving Aid to Rebels—Martial Law Enforced

LONDON, Sept. 20—Hundreds of persons have been killed in fighting between Bulgarian Communists and troops, according to a Daily Chronicle dispatch from Sofia today.

At the Bulgarian legation it was said no news had been received concerning an uprising.

A telegram from Vienna quoted Bulgarian legation officials as saying that communication with Sofia was interrupted and that there was no official news of fighting.

Both the Chronicle and Daily Express correspondents at Belgrade reported violent fighting in Northern Bulgaria. They said that the casualties were heavy.

A severe engagement was reported in southwestern Bulgaria. Gendarmerie and regulars in armored cars armed with machine guns were rushed into the trouble zone.

The situation at Sofia was under control.

The Bulgarian insurgents were said to have won a victory at Radomir, establishing a provincial government.

Roads were torn up to hinder the advance of regular troops. The rebels claimed victory at Karlov, Dupnitza and Salkov, capturing munitions and arms. The fighting was sanguine, neither side took prisoners. Captives were put to death if they surrendered. The Sankoff government at Sofia was said to have taken refuge in a club guarded by troops with machine guns.

BELGRADE, Sept. 20—The backbone of the Communist revolt in Northern Bulgaria has been broken by the prompt measures of the government, said a dispatch from Sofia today. The Macedonia committee is threatening to join the insurgents. Sofia charges that neighboring Balkan states gave assistance to the rebels. Martial law is being strictly enforced.

The Story Reads Like from 'Rags to Riches' by Horatio Alger, Jr.

MERIDEN, Conn., Sept. 20 — "Gosh, Elmer's rich!" So ran the news among his pals when announcement appeared in the local paper that Elmer F. Rader, 18, star pitcher of the high school baseball nine, had been left the bulk of a $75,000 estate—cash, too—under the will of Robert W. Hallam, a retired factory superintendent, who lived next door to Elmer these many years since Elmer was born.

"Elmer's the richest boy in town," said his parents, who added: "Elmer is still going to his work in the factory and will keep his job till its time for him to go back to school in the Fall." Elmer has a job burnishing silver in a local factory and he works 10 hours a day and saves his pay in spite of his wealth.

Hallam, a recluse widower, who was not supposed to have much money, died suddenly, without relatives. When his will was opened it was found therein that Hallam had noticed Elmer's habit of thrift and appreciated Elmer's little fond attentions, when other boys steered clear of his home. So the will directed that Elmer should get the annual interest on $60,000 when he enters college, to be used to pay his expenses there, and the principal when he graduates.

SUIT SAYS RUM LED FATHER TO KILL DAUGHTER

Wife Asks $50,000 Damages of Liquor Dealers She says Sold Poison

BY CHESTER B. BAHN

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 20—Branding them as venders of poison liquor and accusing them of direct responsibility for the fatal shooting of her daughter, Gladys Irene Dedrick, 18, Mrs. Catherine Ball, has filed suit in Supreme Court for $50,000 against two saloon men.

She accuses the men — Hyman Altman and Fred Knight — of selling wood alcohol to her husband, Frank J. Ball, for liquor before he fired the shot that killed the girl.

Ball brought the liquor in their establishment, known as the "Homestead Hotel" and the "Old Homestead Hotel," at No. 1001 South State street, it is charged.

Heartbroken with remorse, the stepfather is serving a six-year term in Auburn Prison, imposed after he pleaded guilty in County Court to an alleged possession of a revolver.

The mother's suit is unique in United States Court annals, and but one other death case has been brought to court in this country under the Civil Damage act, which permits suits against sellers of

DUCHESS MAY ENTER MOVIES TO WIN LIVING

Lives in Comparative Poverty, Despite Old Title

WAS ACTRESS

Unable to Pay Railroad Fare to Ireland to Visit Her Son

(By LUTHER A. HUSTON)

LONDON, Sept 20—The Duchess of Leinster, premier duchess of Ireland, is going into the movies—if she can get a job.

It is not to satisfy a desire for a film career, but the necessity for earning a living that is impelling the duchess to seek employment before the movie camera. For, altho she bears an ancient title, the duchess is living in comparative poverty at Bournemouth, her total income being less than $50 per week. She hasn't enough money for the journey to Ireland to see her son, the nine-year-old Earl of Kildare, and she has not seen him for more than two years.

Before her marriage to Lord Edward Fitzgerald, in 1913, the Duchess was Miss May Etheridge, a popular London actress. She was playing at a London theatre when she met her husband and when the marriage occurred. For some time after her marriage she continued her theatrical work.

"When we were hard up," she said, "I took my husband and the baby to my mother's home. That happened several times and my mother worked like a slave to make us comfortable.

"It was after this that my husband sold his reversionary interest in the Leinster estate to Sir Harry Mallaby Deeley. With it went Carton, the family estate in Ireland, where I really ought to be living now. I have never been there, but I'm told it is a wonderful place, with gorgeous grounds, and I would give my soul to live there with my son.

"Instead I find myself a duchess who is compelled to live a miserable existence on less than $50 per

PRESSMEN'S STRIKE REDUCES SIZE OF NEW YORK DAILIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. — Curtailed metropolitan newspapers—in size and editions—loomed as a possibility for an indefinite period today when New York newspaper publishers called off all dealings with the 2,000 striking pressmen who walked out early Tuesday morning.

Basing their action upon the declaration of George L. Berry, international president of the pressmen's union, who branded the strike "outlaw," the newspaper owners have served notice upon Berry that they will not "deal with the defiant New York Webb Pressman's Union" Local No. 25 and would await his promised action to revoke the charter of this local union and to charter a legal union."

The statement of the publishers was to be presented to the striking pressmen at a meeting this afternoon.

Pending Berry's decision, held in abeyance while efforts are made to effect a compromise, the publishers said they would continue to print papers as they are now doing—in combination morning and evening form. These combinations are still in eight page form and the only advertising is that of amusement houses.

Papers from Philadelphia and elsewhere are being rushed here but only to a small degree are they filling the need of the millions of readers

KLAN LOSES ITS FIGHT ON TRACK BETTING IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, Sept. 20.—The Ku Klux Klan here today lost its fight to suppress race track betting. Common Pleas Judge Warner dismissed the suit in which David A. Edgar, Columbus, sought an injunction restraining officials of the Columbus Driving Park Association from permitting betting on races at the Columbus Driving Park where the fall meeting of the Grand Circuit is now being held.

Among other charges, Edgar alleged that the betting is a detriment to the community and claimed "proper officials" failed in their duty to enforce anti gambling laws. Judge Warner held that insufficient facts were submitted to constitute a cause of action. He ruled, also, that failure of the officials to prohibit betting affords no grounds on which a court of equity can interfere.

OFFICERS OF S. S. ASSOCIATION ARE NAMED FOR YEAR

Officers of the Coshocton City Sunday School association were chosen at a meeting of the organization held in the Carnegie Library building this week

Clarence Clemens was elected president, W. J. Armstrong vice president, J. Wesley Clark treasurer, Mrs. M. D. Custer superintendent of the children's division, Miss Helen Courtright superintendent of the young people's division, [illegible] L. Matthews superintendent of the adult division, Rev. [illegible] superintendent of the administration division and Rev. W. [illegible] superintendent of the educational division.

PRICE AND VALUE OF WHEAT CAUSES FARMERS WORRY

What will be the price of the Coshocton-co farmer's wheat from now until the next crop comes? No one knows—and it is doubtless well that no one does know.

The whole trouble with American wheat seems to be that there is too much wheat and that there is not an adequate market. This condition has come about, farmers of the county say, thru most natural causes and will be corrected only thru natural consequences. In order for wheat to return to its normal place among the other very few farm products today on the credit side of the farmer's ledger, influences numerous and varied, both local, national and worldwide must function favorably. The local influences can have but small weight they almost invariably indicate a national trend. At any rate, there are a few facts that Coshocton-co farmers may consider when discussing means of disposing of this year's wheat crop.

Thruout the county there will be a curtailed wheat acreage seeded this fall, [illegible] it will [illegible] amount to 15 per cent. Wheat sown before September 27 will be greatly endangered by Hessian fly. And the farmer who waits until late may run into wet weather. There have been ground for feed in Coshocton [illegible] day since new wheat started to move, almost 75 bushels of wheat.

This latter fact brings up other questions. What is wheat really worth? At the present price of wheat does it pay to feed wheat to hogs? Or should the farmer sell his wheat and feed corn?

The Missouri Experiment station in a two-year test has shown that 483 pounds of wheat will produce 100 pounds of pork when fed in a dry lot. Under the same conditions it required 532 pounds of corn to produce the same number of pounds of pork.

On the basis of the above figures $7 hogs will net the farmer 87 cents for his wheat and 67 cents for his corn, $7.50 hogs will net 93 cents for wheat and 71 cents for corn, $8 hogs, 99 cents for wheat, 75 cents for corn, $8.50 hogs, $1.05 for wheat, 81 cents for corn, $9 hogs, $1.11 for wheat, 86 cents for corn; $9.50 hogs, $1.18 for wheat, 91 cents for corn.

SEED SELECTION IS DISCUSSED BY GRANGE MEMBERS

At the regular meeting of Mill Creek Valley grange, held Wednesday evening, a class of candidates was instructed in the third and fourth degrees.

Floyd C. Scheetz, lecturer of the Mill Creek Valley order led a discussion on "The Selection of Seed Corn" and emphasized the necessity of early selection of seed this fall in order to save it from frost. He also called attention to the importance of avoiding selection of seed from dead stalks, which, in all probability, are affected with corn root rot. In referring to Hessian fly control, Scheetz stated that he felt certain practically no wheat will be sown in Mill Creek tp this fall before the fly-free dates.

County Deputy Master Harley L. Miller attended the Mill Creek Valley meeting, on his annual subordinate grange inspection tour. Mr. Miller explained the Coshocton-co Investment Service Bureau and urged all farmers who have money to invest to "investigate before investing." He also outlined the aim of the county organization in recently distributing the county for the purpose of exchange of programs and degree-team contests. Mill Creek Valley grange will, in the near future, exchange programs with Keene Hill and Oak Grove, the other orders in District Number 2.

The next regular meeting date of Mill Creek Valley grange has been changed from October 5 to Friday night, September 28, in order to avoid conflicting with the county fair. At this meeting a class of candidates will be given the first and second degrees.

STARK-CO OFFICERS MUST UPHOLD LAW AT COLUMBIA HTS.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 20—Stark co authorities were charged with the maintenance of law and order in the village of Columbia Heights, a suburb of Massillon, in an opinion rendered by Attorney General Crabbe to the prosecuting attorney and sheriff of Stark-co.

The attorney general advised the sheriff to appeal to the county commissioners if he did not have sufficient funds to hire extra deputies who might be needed.

Industrial conditions have caused trouble and unrest in the village, it was said.

COSHOCTON GIRL'S WEDDING IS PERFORMED AT BEDSIDE OF HER FIANCE, WITH LIFE IN BALANCE

Miss Twila Landerman, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Landerman of Coshocton, was married September 12 to Everett Wilson, 23, of Canton at the Aultman hospital in Canton, where Wilson lies dangerously ill from blood poisoning, according to word received by friends here Thursday. Wilson's condition is still critical.

The couple had set next Saturday for their wedding. Their home was furnished, and all plans had been made to move into it following their marriage. Their friendship covered a period of four years.

Late last month, one of Wilson's legs was fractured while he was at work at the plant of the United Alley Co. He was taken to the hospital and blood poisoning developed. For a time his life was despaired of, but it is believed now that he may recover.

Mrs. Wilson left Coshocton about one year ago. While here she was employed in the office of the Pope-Gosser China Co. In Canton she has been stenographer for the Kennedy Hardware Co.

While Wilson was at his worst and fearing he might not live, the young man expressed the wish that he might marry the girl at once. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. P. H. Welshimer, pastor of the First Christian church at Canton, at Wilson's bedside. The ring ceremony was used. Mrs. Laura Landerman, mother of the bride, and one of the hospital nurses acted as witnesses.

Woman Makes Cent Earn $1.56 In Year For White Ribbon

What could you do in a year with a penny?

Up near Keene there's a woman who made $1.56 from a penny in a year.

A year ago the president of the state W. C. T. U. gave to the W. C. T. U.'s of the county, $1. The Keene union received ten cents. [illegible] Whittemore, the president of the Keene organization, gave each of the ten women one cent on condition that in a year they return the penny with the profits made from it during the year.

A few days ago Mrs. J. R. Dunfee who, with her husband, owns and operates a farm a short distance west of Keene, formerly owned by S. G. Leavitt turned in $1.56. Mrs. Dunfee stated that she bought one cent's worth of cucumber seed last spring, and from the plants grown from this seed has just sold $1.56 cent's worth of products.

This stock of fine, bright, new goods was bought not for ourselves — but for you — and to put them into your homes we have used prices that will make you feel at home and trade at home — here.

Today, then, please note that instead of saying we are ready to show the goods we prefer to put it — we are here to show not only the new creations in varieties but also a new code in VALUES.

We invite you and yours believing that we can be of real service to both.

Arizona Ruling May Permit Poor to Hold Office

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 19. Advising that he will try to oust George T. Poor, chairman of the state utilities commission, from his position, Attorney General Crabbe, in a letter received by Governor Donahey today suggested that he did not think it could be done, in the light of a recent supreme court decision in the state of Arizona on a similar case.

The governor recently requested the Attorney General to institute ouster proceedings, because Poor is the acknowledged owner of stock in the Cities Service Co., which, the governor said, controls several Ohio public utility corporations.

The attorney general expressed the opinion that Poor could not be removed, if the Ohio supreme court should hold the Arizona decision to be valid and binding.

Would Americanize Incoming Aliens

COLUMBUS, Sept. 20.—"If we Americans don't Americanize the aliens, they will alienize the Americans," J. J. Davis, United States secretary of labor, declared here today addressing members and employes of the American Insurance Union on selective immigration and a national charity survey. Secretary Davis favored a five year probation period for all immigrants, and a government Americanization school. He scored county systems of poor houses as being the playthings of politicians."

The national cabinet of the A. I. U. is in session here. Secretary Davis is a member of this cabinet.

SUNDAY'S GAME FOR LEAGUE PENNANT PROMISES THRILLS; DOWELL AND PAYNE ON SLAB

The fans who attend Sunday's one of Zanesville's biggest and game at Lake Park between the best bands.
Coshocton Regulars and the Zanes- Secretary Neighbor received ville Greys, will be entertained by word Thursday that the Zanesville club will bring a high priced musical combination of several musicians to the ball game Sunday. The letter also stated that from 600 to 700 fans would accompany the team here.

The Zanesville management requests plenty of space be reserved in the stands for Zanesville fans. Most of the reserved seat tickets sent to Zanesville have been sold, is the report. The biggest crowd of fans that ever accompanied a Zanesville baseball nine away from home, is expected to be here for Sunday's game.

Buses will be ready at the Park hotel to haul the throng of Muskingum-co fans to the ball park. The Park hotel will be the headquarters for Zanesville fans. They will come on a special train over the Wheeling & Lake Erie.

The baseball field, both the infield and outfield will be "manicured" especially for Sunday's game.

Temporary bleachers will be erected about the latter part of the week. More seats will be erected this time than at the last game at Lake Park.

Sam Payne will pitch. Payne said Thursday that his arm is in fine shape. He feels confident of taking over the Greys. Manager Robertson will have Orve Rea and Bill Rasmick warming up back of the bleachers during the game so that either one could be called into immediate action should Sam's offerings fail to puzzle the Reilly-men.

No doubt Lefty Dowell will get the first call for the Greys. Reilly will not take any chances on losing this battle to Coshocton and also the pennant by using any other than his best Dowell has never been defeated by Robertson's men this season. The southpaw was headed toward defeat last Sunday, but pulled thru.

Umpire Lowery will officiate. The game will be called at 3 p. m. prompt. The batteries will likely be: Greys—Dowell and Reilly; Coshocton—Payne and Hildebrant.

TAGGING THE BASES

The Reds clinched second place by the scuff of the neck by beating the Phillies in a double header 1 to 0 and 6 to 5, while the Giants were idle.

Getting another even break on a double header afternoon, the Tigers won the first game from the Athletics 6 to 2 but lost the second 4 to 3.

Johnston's carefree throw in the tenth gave Alexander the decision over Reuther and allowed the Cubs to divide the spoils with the Dodgers. The latter won the first game 5 to 1. Vance scoring his seventeenth victory of the season.

The Senators had an easy time with the Browns, Mogridge jogging his way to an eleven to nothing decision.

Adams was waited out of the box in less than an inning as the Braves, the Pirates losing, 7 to 4.

The Red Sox came along from the rear in the ninth and beat the White Sox, 2 to 1.

THE PENNANT RACES

The Giants have it in their power to clinch the pennant in the next few days.

Today they begin a series of three games with the Pirates to be followed by two games with the Reds. If the Giants hold their own in these two series they will have annexed their third successive pennant.

The Giants today are four games ahead of the Reds and six in front of the Pirates. Their last game with St. Louis, called off by rain yesterday, will not be played unless it is essential to the pennant fight for the pennant.

If the Giants win five of their remaining ten games the Reds must win ten of their eleven games and the Pirates all of their 13 contests to beat them out. In this event the Reds and Pirates would be tied for the pennant.

The Yankees will try again today to clinch the pennant when they meet St. Louis.

TODAY'S BRIGHT SPOT

Forrest McGurk, 19-year-old son of an Athens Methodist minister, is back at his studies at Ohio University, after a summer's "bumming" trip.

On June 15 the boy started from Athens with $10 and before he got home three months later had seen most all of the eastern part of South America as well as Eastern cities, and brot back a $10 bill.

He worked his way to South America as a waiter on an ocean liner, in Argentina traveled hundreds of miles back in the bush in a flivver and then "waited" his way back again. On the home trip he served meals to the sweetheart of Louis Angel Firpo, enroute to see the "Wild Bull" fall before Dempsey.

DEFIANCE—Pay up week with a slogan of "You Pay Me and I'll Pay You" is being conducted by the Defiance Better Business Association, preliminary to establishing a credit rating bureau for the purpose of protecting merchants against bad debtors.

EAST LIVERPOOL—William S. Vogelsang, 65, Salem, died at the wheel of his auto as he was returning home from the Lisbon fair. Vogelsang was seen to slump in his seat, and the car swerved and came to a stop at the edge of a 15 foot embankment. He was dead when a physician arrived.

CANTON—A plea of dire circumstances caused by the illness of her husband won for Mary Stephana Bower the suspension of a $100 fine before Judge Bowman. The woman had been arrested for violating the prohibition law. She told the court that she had sold liquor to support her two children and sick husband.

BELLAIRE — By means of the marks of a peculiar tire tread on a new truck, officials of the Stark Lumber Co., Canton, trailed a truck that had been stolen in Canton as far as St. Clairsville. As the man who drove the truck away had given a Bellaire address, they took a chance, and came here. The truck was found abandoned on a country road, the gasoline having run out.

ELYRIA—The three men who assaulted, bound, gagged and robbed Orlando Hurst, and then made a getaway in a new Buick car Hurst was demonstrating to them, have been apprehended at Jacksonville, Fla., according to word received by local police.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE — Warning has been issued to residents of the tri-state district who attended the Belmont county fair here last Friday to be vaccinated if it has been more than five years since they were immunized against smallpox. The warning was issued by County Health Commissioner Dew, as the result of the discovery that a Barnsville man who spent the day at the fair is suffering from the dread disease.

LIMA—Ursa Fuller, 19, has carried to the appelate court his fight to gain possession of his child bride Rose Kershmer, said to be 13 years old.

Rose claims she is more than 13, and that her parents are trying to force her to marry a 40-year-old boarder. The girl claims she is nearing her eighteenth birthday. Fuller says he believes she is not the daughter of Kershmer's, but that her real mother lives in Columbus and is known as her aunt.

NELSONVILLE — The biggest still ever taken in Athens county has been bret in from the wilds of Carthage township, where it was found in a cave behind an abandoned farmhouse. It was of about 75 gallons capacity, shaped like a bathtub and made of copper. Several hundred gallons of mash and one man were also taken.

NELSONVILLE — After a bitter fight of four months duration, the city council has voted to install oil burners under the engines in the municipal light plant. Union miners all over the district protested against the use of any fuel other than coal, as the city of Nelsonville is in the heart of the coal fields.

DEFIANCE—Defiance Boy Scouts have received from Mrs. Warren G. Harding a card of appreciation for their thoughtfulness in placing flowers upon the funeral train of the late President Harding as it passed thru Defiance.

TOLEDO — "There will be no gum-chewing in the jury box," Common Pleas Judge Milroy told the petit jurors as they assembled for the September term here.

"When one or two start to chewing gum, it takes their minds off the work, and their inattention bothers the other jurors, the attorneys and the court," the judge said.

CINCINNATI — Heated discussions on a streetcar concerning a prize fight were brot to a sudden termination when a cat came flying thru a window and fell into the lap of one of the passengers. The result was the arrest of four boys.

OKLAHOMA LABOR SUPPORTS WALTON IN WAR ON KLAN

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 20 — That Oklahoma's house of representatives will gather on or before to-At Tuesday to start impeachment proceedings against Governor J. C. Walton was the word passed around among legislators here today.

Between 60 and 70 out of the membership of 107 are reported to be behind the movement.

Where the legislature will meet was not disclosed, but it was apparent that a gathering would take place by Tuesday to determine "who's who in Oklahoma."

Petitions demanding an extra session of the legislature to discuss Walton and his policies had been circulated here prior to the imposition of martial law.

The governor's threat to use the military to jail legislators if they convened has aroused more ire here than did the order suspensing the writ of habeas corpus.

"Walton is mad with power," is an expression frequently heard here. It was being used by the same men who investigated hooded mob violence.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 20. — Movements on foot to oust Governor J. C. Walton, of Oklahoma, within the next ten days were occupying legislative members of the house of representatives today.

His fight on the Ku Klux Klan with drastic methods of employing militia has aroused deep resentment in his opponents' camp and seriously voiced approval among his followers.

To guard against such action which Governor Walton charges is "instigated by the Ku Klux Klan," additional troops were placed in the state house Tuesday night with a prospect of further reinforcement today.

The fact that the constitution of the state specifies that the legislature must meet at the capitol reveals his reasons for particular attention toward guarding the assembly doors.

As it is purely a matter of "hands off" so far as the United States government is concerned Governor Walton is prepared today to carry out his "local matter" to win what he characterizes as a "never-give-in fight to oust the invisible government yesterday, today and forever, from the state's province."

The second tilt in this city between Mayor Cargill and the military resulted in victory for the mayor. The state fair will be held, after being once banned by the governor.

Klan officials continued today to absolutely refuse to make a statement. "I don't want to be discourteous," Grand Dragon N. C. Jewett said, "but I have nothing to say."

In the event the legislature determines to "rise in insurrection" against the military to gain entrance to their chamber there will be at least seven among members of both houses that carry commissions in the national guard. Their predicament will be one of choice of loyalty to either legislature or national guard.

DRINK WATER FREELY IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Also Take Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or side headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weaher is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Forest Conservation In Alaska

THE United States Government is proceeding to have utilized on a large scale its great virgin timber supplies in Alaska. They are also to be utilized in a scientific manner, which is something new in this country tho old in Europe.

Conditional sale is just announced by the Forest Service of 334,000,000 cubic feet of timber on the Government's Alaskan reservations to a San Francisco firm at 60 cents a cord for Sitka spruce and 30 cents for Western hemlock, which prices will stand until 1931 and then be revised at five-year intervals. Title to the land remains in the Government. As the contractors cut off the timber they will be bound to plant seed trees enough to insure a perpetual supply. They must agree to establish pulp and paper mills with a specified minimum production. When this and other timber leases have been put in operation a perpetual yearly supply of 1,500,000 tons of paper will be assured, which is more than one-half of this country's present consumption of news print.

That would greatly reduce the pressure upon the fast vanishing timber supplies of the United States. It would also reduce our dependence on Canadian timber. It will mean, as well, a continuous source of public revenue and will have powerful exemplary consequences for scientific forestry thruout the country.

We are waking up late to the importance of conserving the nation's natural wealth. Indiscriminate private exploitation for private profit has left a vast and fearful waste of stumps and brush and blackened debris of fires. We shall be generations in restoring those old timber resources. But the tide of that devastation can be not only stopped but turned back.

Farmer Needs No Politicians

THE summer's changes in the farming industry have led some students to a less dreary opinion of the farmer's hopes. Prices on a number of farm staples have improved.

The rise in the quotations upon October cotton, for one case, has added an estimated $400,000,000 to the market value of this year's crop. Most of the money will no doubt find its way down to points south of Mason and Dixon's line and "out back" from cities and factories. The price of the new corn crop has been maintained and has somewhat risen during the summer. The summer's decline in wheat remains unremedied, but the results in other crops differ so sharply from those in wheat as to make it the exception to the rule of steady or rising farm prices.

The farmers as a whole have not fallen quite so deep into loss as last year's elections and this spring's political maneuvers suggested. Politically, certain of the farming sections gave signs of distress recently by turning for help to statesmen who offered rash and striking proposals for their betterment. They had, indeed, suffered in their pockets almost everywhere. The deflation in farm product values had cut down the market values of the farms themselves. The owners had suffered the loss of a great part of their lands' value and of their consequent borrowing power. They had sold at deflated prices at least one year's product that they had calculated to sell at top prices.

The farm hardship was found to pass as soon as the farmers could revise their ways of living, of cultivating and of borrowing to accord with the lower level of crop prices. Some of them have already done this and some others are hard at it this autumn. Another such season may bring the farmers, or at least the main part of them, the raisers of corn, cotton, hogs, beef and dairy products, to a state where they can again look smilingly upon the agitator and tell him to go to.

The case of the wheat producer stands apart. He fails for the third season running to make a bread winning income from the great bread crop. The foreign countries have to buy cotton here, no matter what that may do to their rate of exchange; no one else raises the cotton that they need. The foreign consumers of pork in divers forms are constrained equally to buy. No wonder that corn, a basic material of pork, commands a steady price. As for beef, not many months have passed since the department sent out appeals to consumers to eat more meat. Corn goes into beef as well as into pork. The solid demand for corn indicates that beef, tho we no longer export it in great quantity, finds plenty of consumers at home. Wheat, on the contrary, can be sold abroad only in competition with the product of newer or less expensive lands in Canada, Argentina and elsewhere.

The United States cannot in a moment produce mouths enough to eat many million bushels of surplus wheat. It can and will share city prosperity with the farmer who will supply foodstuffs that suit its enhanced purchasing power. The defeated wheat farmer may in many cases find his financial salvation by turning to other crops.

Almost everywhere else than in wheat the farmers' prospects have begun to brighten. David Friday, in the Review of Reviews, recently went so far as to assert that agriculture was regaining its normal place this year, and could presently renew its purchasing on a scale at least equal to that of 1914. This belief may allow too little for the demands yet to be met by farmers in satisfying left over debts. It may not reckon sufficiently on the wheat farmers' actual losses as affecting one great section of the country. It at least points to an outcome that another year or so of fair crops and firm prices may well bring about in most farming sections.

Mrs. Lodic Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa.—"A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous weakness, no strength in my body and pains in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work. Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. UNCLE SAM LIVES WITHIN INCOME, SAVES SOME COIN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20. — The firm of Uncle Sam, incorporated is still making money.

This was disclosed by a treasury statement today showing that of the first ten weeks of the new fiscal year (to September 15) the federal government reduced its ordinary expenses $42,000,000 and at the same time increased its income $29,000,000.

The United States is one of the very few governments in the world that is living within its income. Today's statement is distinctly encouraging to those who are going to attempt a general tax reduction for next year, for it reveals that the government is starting off the new year well.

The cost of running all branches of the government for ten weeks was $518,704,000 as compared with $561,469,000 in the corresponding period last year. Treasury receipts from all sources were $579,692,000, as compared with $550,468,000 last year.

General expenses for the legislative and executive branches were sharply reduced. The total for this purpose $425,000,000 was $20,000,000 less than last year. Interest on the public debt was $38,600,000, a reduction of $12,000,000 because of the rapid progress made by the treasury during the last year in calling down the public debt.

Refunds of customs and internal revenue receipts totalled $30,000,000 but this was $12,000,000 less than in the same period last year.

Upholding American Ideals

THE railroad transportation systems of this country have been an important element in making America the greatest nation in the world. The country-wide service provided by these great arteries of commerce has enabled America to maintain its commercial supremacy.

The railroads of America are performing each day and night a vital service—close to the lives of the American people—for whether it be through the transportation of passengers or freight the people are dependent on that service for their very existence.

The prosperity of the railroads means the prosperity of the people and the continuance of the provisions of the Transportation Act of 1920—under which the railroads are recuperating from the effects of war-time operation—is therefore of urgent importance to the people as well as to the railroads.

America's railroads are the finest and most efficiently operated in the world and in supporting them the people of this country are upholding American ideals. The future of our great railroad systems is linked closely with the future of America.

OBNOXIOUS LAWS

"I do not like that statute raw which bans domestic strife; it seems a most oppressive law, when I would beat my wife." Thus spake my neighbor, Jabez Whence, a voter stern and dour, when he leaned up against my fence to gossip for an hour. "My wife goes chasing up the street, she idles and she talks; she never gets me things to eat, she never darns my socks. She never heeds the reprimands I hand her every day; she has a mallet in her hands, with which she plays croquet. She knows I am a modern hub, by modern rules oppress: she knows I will not use a club, altho a club is best. I will not use a club, gadzooks, nor tread the caveman's way; the law is there upon the books, I bow and I obey. Altho the wife's a total loss who on my bosom leans, I'll strive to humbly bear my cross, and eat cold cans of beans." Oh, noble heart, oh, Spartan soul, what sand is in your craw! You yearn to wield a red elm pole, and yet obey the law! And cheaper skates, and feebler ginks, survey the law with scorn; they know it's wrong to purchase drinks, and yet they buy a horn. The man heroic never yields to any vain desire that leads him to illicit fields, and sets the law afire.

RUB RHEUMATIC PAIN FROM ACHING JOINTS

Stop "dosing" your stomach. It's pain only. St. Jacobs Oil will stop any pain and not one rheumatism case in 100 requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating St. Jacobs Oil right on the tender spot, and by the time you say Jack Robinson out comes the rheumatic pain and soreness. St. Jacobs Oil is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints, and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones, stops neuralgia, lumbago, backache and neuritis.

Limber up! Get a small trial bottle of old-time, honest St. Jacobs Oil from any drug store and in a moment you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.

BREAK CHEST COLDS WITH RED PEPPER

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Let a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

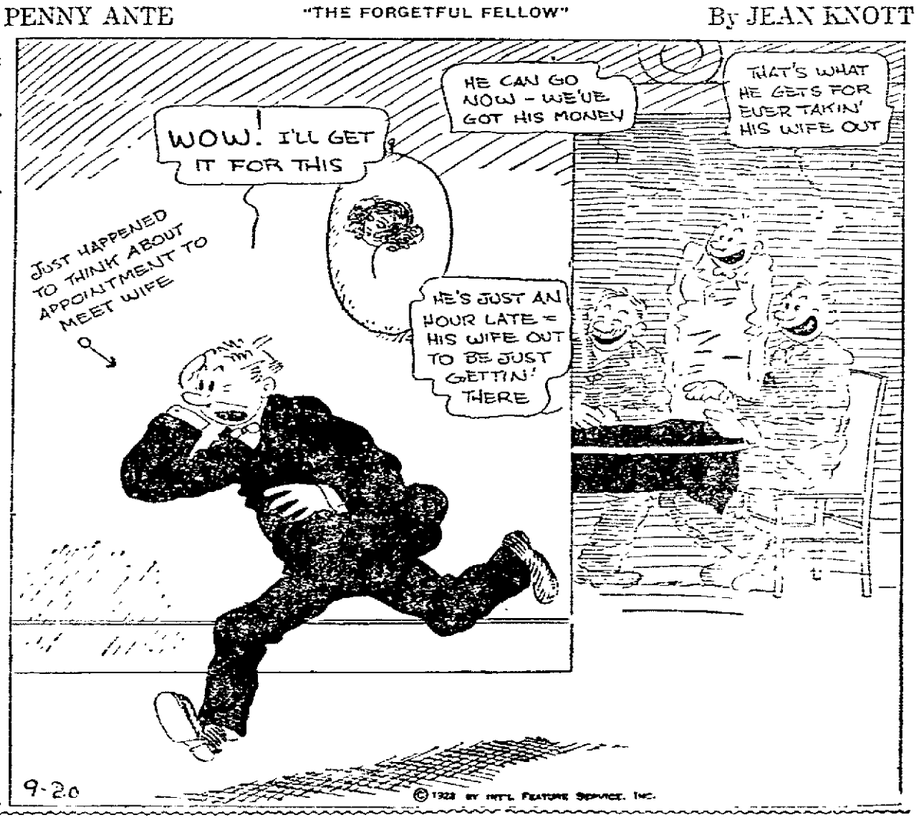

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into the tissues, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub, feel the tingling heat. In a few minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known. Always say

Breakfast No. 1

The finest cereal dainty ever served

No breakfast dainty can compare with steam exploded rice. In texture flavor and ease of digestion it holds the supreme place.

Grains puffed to airy morsels, 8 times normal size. Food cells broken so digestion is made easy. A nut-like flavor due to fearful heat.

The greatest night dish is Quaker Puffed Wheat in milk. That is whole wheat steam exploded.

The wheat supplies 12 minerals growing children must have. Also their need of bran. Milk is rich in all three vitamines.

Make whole wheat and whole milk tempting in this delightful way. Then people will revel in these matchless foods.

Millions of people are better fed since Professor A. P. Anderson invented Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice.

Let no day pass without them.

You Can Quickly Limber Up Sore, Stiff, Swollen Joints

Even Chronic Rheumatic Swellings in Knee, Elbow, Shoulder or Finger Joints Yield to the Mighty Powerful Influence of JOINT-EASE.

It's here right in town and Wimmer Arnold Co and every live druggist has it.

It's a low price remedy, to be sure, but that doesn't stop it from taking the kinks, lameness or torture out of your troubled joints.

Joint-Ease is the name, so called because it is compounded solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments.

Just rub it on the tormented, lame joints and in just a few seconds it will penetrate to the bone and blessed comfort comes quickly.

It absorbs instantly and is so clean and stainless that you can rub it on often and get thereby results much more quickly, when the joint is inflamed and the agony intense.

Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bringing speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago and neuralgia much quicker than almost any remedy you can buy.

But you must remember that it is for joint afflictions that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will astonish you after all ordinary liniments and other treatments have failed.

political power of their race in the north. While it is true that discontented colored voters do not as a rule turn to the Democratic ticket they do stay away from the polls upon occasion and this only tends to improve the chances of the Democrats who do get their normal vote to the polls.

Running counter to the aspirations of the colored leaders to political power is the movement in the south among what is known as the "Lily white Republicans" the same being those white voters who believe in the Republican party's principles with the exception of its favoritism for the colored man. The thought has been expressed again and again by this faction that were it not for the latter fact there would be an opportunity to build up strong Republican organizations in southern states. C. Bascom Slemp, private secretary to President Coolidge has been most active in the "Lily White Republican" movement and voted with the Democrats in the last session of congress against the Dyer proposal to make lynching a federal crime. When news of the appointment of Mr. Slemp was first announced, there were murmurs of discontent among the colored Republicans and it is believed an attempt is being made to wipe out some of the feeling engendered by the appointment. The fact that Mr. Coolidge himself is receiving constantly the more prominent men and women of the colored race is being expected to offset any rumor of a lily white movement being sanctioned at the White House.

OKLAHOMA LEGISATORS TO ATTEMPT TO IMPEACH GOV. WALTON AT NEXT SESSION

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 20. — Supported unanimously in his determination to drive lawlessness and the Ku Klux Klan out of the state by the action of "State Federation of Labor" in endorsing his stand at its state convention at Henryetta, Governor J. C. Walton today "took heart" and entrenched himself more firmly in his position against "hooded justice."

Governor Walton showed not the slightest sign of backing down from his fight to eradicate "mob justice" from Oklahoma.

With the state still under a blanket order of martial law and this city and Tulsa under military guard, the "invisible government" if moving at all, was laying its plans entirely in a secret manner.

The military court investigating scores of witnesses for evidence of alleged flogging, continued in this work at headquarters in the Huckins Hotel. Several witnesses were to be called before the board of inquiry which is meeting behind barred doors under the strictest military guard.

The work of the military court is expected to continue for a few days yet, but no information whatever was being given out by Colonel Graves, president of the board.

A strong faction in the legislature which is attempting to meet in extraordinary session in an attempt to bring impeachment proceedings against the governor, took encouragement from the speech of Summers Hardy, former supreme court justice at Tulsa in which he declared that the legislative bodies could convene at any time to investigate questionable acts of state officials.

From reliable sources it was learned today that messengers were being sent from various points in the state to get definite assurance from members that they are willing to meet, within the next week at some unspecified spot. It is not definitely clear, however, whether the law permits meeting any other place than the capitol, even in the capital city.

It is known that local members of the house have met in this city with members from other parts of the state and claim to have the necessary numbers to meet and consider the governor's position. The impeachment proceedings, it is known, are being drafted, indicating that an assemblage might be attempted the early part of next week.

The armed guard at the capitol was kept constantly on duty. Both chambers of the legislature were under strong guard of military with bayonets.

POSTURE PETERS' BODY WAS FOUND PROVES DAMAGING

COURT HOUSE, White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 20. — The state again struck its second vital blow in an effort to send Walter S. Ward, the millionaire's son to the electric chair on a charge that he "murdered in cold blood" Clarence M. Peters, the penniless Haverhill, Mass. marine.

"A man shot in the manner Peters was shot would die instantly. As the shot struck him he would stagger a foot or two then his knees would sag and he would fall to the ground a crumpled heap," Dr. Henry Vier, coroner, testified.

The state already has shown by two witnesses that Peters' body, in the words of Attorney General Sherman "was laid out like an undertaker would do the job."

"In your opinion doctor, would a man shot as Peters was shot be laid out straight on his back as Peters laid?" Thomas O'Neill assistant state attorney general asked Dr. Vier.

"He wouldn't," Dr. Vier answered.

Counsel for Ward demanded that the answer be stricken from the record. Justice Wagner granted the request.

O'Neill smiled at the ruling. He had driven home his point before the jury.

Ward watched every move as O'Neill illustrated the condition in which Peters' body was found. His wife, sitting beside him grasped his hand and held it. She was very pale. Ward's expression did not change.

gress. Congressmen are continually sitting on the President's doorstep. The success or failure of an administration programme may, and frequently does, depend to a large extent upon the Executive's relationships with individual members of Congress.

The exception prevails that Bascom Slemp will render yeoman service to Calvin Coolidge in his new job, because he has that acquaintance with members of Congress that Mr. Coolidge has not. No President, with the possible exception of Woodrow Wilson, ever came into the whitehouse with a lesser acquaintance in official Washington than Mr. Coolidge—and this despite the fact that for two and one-half years the taciturn Vermonter presided over the Senate. Mr. Coolidge had no intimates in the Senate and to the House he is virtually unknown.

The name "liaison officer" already has been applied to Slemp. It is expected he will be the go-between to pacify the middle man between the whitehouse and the Capitol.

It's a new job. Whether it will work out successfully or not remains to be seen, but Washington's interest is keen.

The Democrats, of course, assign another reason for President Coolidge's appointment of Bascom Slemp.

Slemp is a Virginian. For sixteen years he has been the only Republican Congressman from that Democratic State. It has not infrequently been said of him that "he is the Republican Party of Virginia."

At any rate, it is conceded that there is no one in the party who knows the Republican South any better than Bascom Slemp. Under all Republican administrationos his has been a powerful voice in the allotment of Southern patronage.

He has been known in the past to "swing a big stick" with the Southern and black-and-tan delegates to national conventions. And now the Democrats are unkind enough to assert that his appointment as Presidential Secretary was made with an eye on the Southern delegations at next year's Republican Convention.

It would be difficult to imagine two men more unlike than Calvin Coolidge and Bascom Slemp. Coolidge is rather small of stature, blond, reserved, deliberate and very, very taciturn and serious. Slemp is tall, swarthy, quick, a [illegible] and he has that patterns of small talk and familiar backslapping that are part and parcel of the natural politician.

The one is from Vermont, where it is fifty degrees below zero in the Winter, the other is from Virginia, where the sun shines all year round. And that tells the story of the two men better than it could be told in volumes.

Bascom Slemp is 53 years old. He was born and "raised" in Virginia. He comes from the Big Stone Gap region, the home of John Fox, the novelist. He and John Fox played together as boys all over the country that is so beautifully described in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." They once were law partners, but they could not spare time from hunting and fishing to go to court, so their practice dwindled, and they finally dissolved partnership.

It is told of their partnership that on the office door hung a sign:

"Gone for the day. Will be back tomorrow."

It was of metal. Undisturbed it finally rusted so that the letters were illegible.

It might be inferred from this that Bascom Slemp is lazy. Nothing could be further from the truth. He is one of the most indefatigable men in Washington at his favorite pastime—politics.

And additional proof of Bascom Slemp's industry is found in the fact that in the last twenty years he has amassed a fortune of well over a million dollars in coal land leases and real estate projects. He is a "Millionaire Secretary"—the first who ever came into the whitehouse of that class.

DORIS PEEKS INTO A QUEER LITTLE HOME.

"LOOK! look!" cried Doris, as a shadow fell across the ground.

She glanced up in the air and there sailing across the sky was a great big bird.

"I just wish—" Doris began when a merry laugh rang out and a dear little elfin all dressed in green and gold, tumbled down in the grasses at her side.

"Sorry that Happy Giggles and Squeedee are both busy," laughed the merry little elfin. "Still they sent me to take their place. I'm Fix-it. My, but I came near having a tumble. I was out for a sail on Mr. Eagle's back when Happy Giggles called me and asked me to come down here. Mr. Eagle was in—"

"Was that big bird an eagle?" interrupted Doris. "Goodness, I was just wondering what he was. My, but he made a big shadow. Where was he going to take you, anyway?"

"To see his new family," replied Fix-it. "But I don't mind. I can visit them another time. The question now is, can I be of any service to you, honey? What was the trouble, anyway?"

"You've already answered my question," Doris laughed. "I just wanted to know what that bird was, he made such a big shadow as he flew over me. I'm sorry if I spoiled your trip."

"Spoiled nothing!" laughed Fix-it. "Come along and we'll pay Mrs. Eagle a visit," and before Doris could answer, away they sailed through the air, right up to the tallest tree on the tallest peak of the mountain.

There, as proud as a peacock, sat Mrs. Eagle on her nest with her two little youngsters toddling around her.

"My goodness!" Doris cried as she tried to pull one of the velvety babies away from the edge of the nest. "I should think you'd be frightened to death for fear they'd tumble out of a nest so flat."

"Well, if they can't stay on a six-foot nest, then they'll never fall but once," laughed Mother Eagle. "Daddy and I have raised a good many little eagles and never once have we lost any. All eagles build flat nests like this and I never yet have heard of any youngsters falling out of them. Sometimes I wish they would, they'd learn to fly much easier. As it is, it takes both Daddy and me a long time to coax them off the nest and it's some job teaching them to fly."

"It's a good thing that you have only two little babies," laughed Doris. "If you had any more, they'd surely get excited and tumble out."

"Well, you know, eagles do not have different mates each season like most birds have," laughed Mother Eagle. "Eagles mate for life. Daddy Eagle and I have been mated a good many years and have lived here all the time, so I'll not begin to worry now."

Doris chuckled and suddenly found herself alone on the very spot she had met Fix-it.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Disquieting Discovery Madge Made.

"THE east end of Long Island?" Mrs. Marks, my queer neighbor of the rear apartment, repeated my words slowly, while all color, save that which came from her rouge pot, drained from her face. "What do you mean? Is there where you went? Do you live out there? Where?"

The queries were quick and tempestuous. I was careful to make my tone casual in reply, for I did not wish her to realize that I suspected her connection with the family across the road from my farmhouse home in whose house the whiskey still had been found.

"Between Bridgehampton and Sag Harbor on the road called 'Twisting Path,'" I returned, "but I was only jesting when I spoke of relatives of yours. The photograph I ran across was much like you, however, although I can see now that you have different features. Queer, isn't it, what odd resemblances there are in this world?"

I pretended to busy myself with my tea as I spoke, so that I could avoid looking at her. That she was making a game effort to pull herself together, I knew, not only from the silence which followed my question, but from the forced, even strangled intonation which finally couched her answer.

"Yes, there are. I'm sure I'd like to see somebody that looks a lot like me. But I never was out beyond Rockaway on Long Island in my life."

I made the mental comment that she might well be speaking the literal truth, even though I was convinced that she indeed was the original of the photograph I had seen. But I gave voice only to the most banal reply:

"You ought to go sometime. It is wonderfully beautiful out there."

"Come Again Soon."

"I've heard so," she replied, and then I turned the conversation into the safe channel of the neighboring shops, until I could take my leave without awkwardness.

"I wish you'd come again soon," she said wistfully, as I left. "I'll tell you the best time, between half-past four and half-past five. My Petey, he gets up and goes out at half-past four, and I see your sweetie comes home every day about half-past five, so that's a good time."

"It does appear so," I returned non-committally, and the next minute I was in my own rooms, a bit bewildered at the glimpse I had behind the scenes of my neighbor's life, and fully resolved to keep away from her vicinity as much as possible.

I told myself that this resolve had its inception in Dicky's vehemently expressed disapproval of both the masculine and the feminine Marks. But when with a few small sticks I had managed a small fire in the grate, which was the one redeeming feature of the apartment to me, and had sat down in an armchair in front of it, I faced the humiliating truth that I did not wish Dicky to meet the girl, Mollie, whose fresh young beauty was so unusual, and of a type which I knew was most appealing to my artist husband.

That Mollie was an intimate of the Marks household was patent. Sooner or later, in the common hallway or on the stairs, Dicky in all probability would encounter her. Instinctively, I dreaded that meeting, though I fully realized the meanness as well as the absurdity of the fear.

In an Idle Moment.

It was not a happy time which I spent before my poor apology for a fire, waiting for Dicky's return from the luncheon to which he had so mysteriously been called. I suppose most wives have had similar unpleasant sessions with their souls, with the twin demons of loneliness and uneasiness helping to make things interesting. My own mental experience was aggravated by the remembrance of Dicky's startled look when I had made a jesting reference to the absence of feminine guests at the luncheon.

Was it possible that——?

With a mental jerk, I forced my mind away from Dicky and all problems in any way connected with him. I knew the only sure method of keeping my thoughts away from him, and promptly looked around the apartment for something interesting to read.

A book of which I had heard much lay on the table, evidently where Dicky had laid it upon his return home. That the hero's name was Benjamin, I had gleaned from the reviews, as well as the fact that marriage vows in his theory of life were irksome bonds made only to be broken.

With mild curiosity I took up the book, and returned to my armchair, but as I opened it, I sat bolt upright in my chair. For on the flyleaf of what was plainly a presentation copy, was the inscription:

"To 'Benjamin' with the author's gratitude."

YOUR HEALTH

Why Every School Child Should Be Taught to Swim

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

A FEW days ago a young woman who is an expert swimmer and diver wrote me an interesting letter about the health-giving properties of swimming.

I want to quote a little from this letter, because what she says should be given serious consideration. Here is the first statement:

"I feel that every man and woman should know how to swim. No matter how far they may live from a body of water, there will come a time when they will either wish they knew how to swim in order to have a little fun, or will have to know how to swim to save their own lives. And they should not be denied the means by which they can preserve themselves against an untimely end."

There is good sense in this. If you ever saw a drowning you will appreciate these words.

Next, my correspondent discusses the health aspect of swimming which she says, "has developed delicate children into the healthiest specimens of manhood and womanhood. It has straightened round-shoulders. It has taught people to fill their lungs with air. It has given strength to the arms and legs. It has sent blood to the brain, making many an otherwise dull mind an intelligent one. Swimming has given zest to life."

That is a pretty enthusiastic account of the possibilities of swimming, isn't it? After all, however, this splendid exercise will do about everything claimed for it.

Having emphasized these important things about swimming, my correspondent makes this plea:

"Therefore, because of its health-giving properties, its brain-developing possibilities and its undeniable part in saving lives, swimming should be taught in every grammar school, high school and college in the United States."

This lady says she keeps up her swimming for more than sport's sake. She is doing her best to have swimming included in the curriculum of every school in the country. I sincerely hope she will succeed. I want to help in this worthy crusade.

It is just as important to teach the ways to live as it is to teach the rules of grammar. I have criticized the school at times for neglecting the bodies of the pupils. Hygiene should be taught and the ways to apply it should be demonstrated in every school.

The modern schools are equipped with indoor swimming pools. This is well, and every community financially able to install such equipment should do so. But if funds are not available for such a purpose, there are few places without a small stream which can be dammed and made into a splendid swimming pond.

In arranging for swimming plans must be made to have the water clean and kept clean. There is nothing more dangerous to health than an insanitary pool. All the good derived from the physical exercise of swimming will be counteracted by the infections which will result from contaminated water. But this is a danger which is easily avoided.

Swimming should be a year-round exercise. It can be when indoor pools are available. Let us help to create a sentiment for the body-cleansing, muscle-training, brain-stimulating art of swimming.

Answers to Health Questions.

E. V. Q.—What can I do for bunions?

A.—Bunions can easily be relieved by wearing a broad-toed shoe, as this trouble is caused by pressure of the shoe on the joint of the great toe. Place a pad of cotton between the great toe and second toe, to keep the great toe straight. In extreme cases an operation will cure the condition.

LUCILLE. Q.—I am a women of thirty-four, and have a blood-pressure of 135. Is this too high?

2.—Is 135 pounds overweight for my age?

A.—A blood-pressure of 135 is not too high for you.

2.—135 pounds is the correct weight for a woman of thirty-four, if she is five feet four inches tall.

MISS J. B. Q.—I have been suffering from lateral curvature of the spine. Will you kindly tell me whether this can be cured, and where to apply for treatment?

A.—Yes, in some cases this condition has been cured. Consult an orthopedist, or apply at the orthopedic clinic of one of the large hospitals for an examination and treatment.

M. R. M. Q.—Will you kindly tell me what to use to make my eyelashes grow?

2.—Kindly tell me about ——.

A.—At night, before retiring, apply one per cent yellow oxide of mercury to your eyelashes. This will tend to increase their growth.

2.—Kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope, restating your question, and full particulars will be given.

* * *

E. B. Q.—I am a girl fifteen years of age, height five feet, seven inches. What should my correct weight be?

A.—For your age and height, you should weigh about 124 pounds.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally, if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl twenty-three years old, and I love a young man dearly. He seems to care for me. The other night we had a little quarrel that didn't amount to anything, I thought. But it seems that he thought I was to blame. Sometimes I think he doesn't treat me right. If he loves me do you think he would treat me this way?

I care for him more than he thinks I do. I never have anything to do with other men because I promised him I would not go with any one else, and he told me the same. A TRUE ONE.

A TRUE ONE: Invite this young man to your home and ask him to tell you frankly what you have done to displease him. Ask him at the same time to release you from your promise not to accept the friendship of other men. Because, my dear, you are not engaged, and therefore should not devote all your time and thought to any one young man.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl seventeen years old. I am going with a young man whom I love dearly, but he kisses me and puts his arm around me. He says he loves me, and we have been engaged, but my father wouldn't give his consent. So I broke our engagement. But we are still going together.

I would like to have him treat me with more respect. I have told him it was wrong to kiss each other unless we are engaged.

I love him very dearly and don't wish to hurt his feelings, yet I want him to be [illegible] than he is. Wouldn't it be best to break our friendship [illegible]

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

How Friend Lydia Saved George Washington's Army.

SECOND STREET in Philadelphia is but two blocks removed from the Delaware River and is now one of the busiest thoroughfares.

But in 1777 this thoroughfare was a quiet residential street lined with quaint red brick houses like that of William Penn, who had been the founder of the colony of which Philadelphia was the metropolis.

In one of these houses lived a quiet little Quaker lady, known as "Friend Lydia." Although she appeared peaceful and quiet to those who saw her going sedately to market or demurely knitting by the window, in her heart was anything but peace. The reason was that across the street from her house were the headquarters of General Howe, the British General, then in possession of the city.

On several occasions the British staff officers had used one of Lydia's rooms as a meeting place for secret conferences and her blood boiled at the thought.

On a snowy day in December of that year, a message was brought to Lydia that her room was desired that night. The order carried the command that she should see that her family were all in bed at an early hour.

In her quiet way, the good lady went about the house arranging [illegible] and she managed to get her family off to bed shortly after eight o'clock.

She [illegible] that there was a secret [illegible] to be discussed [illegible] So when [illegible] she [illegible] up the stairs she trembled.

camped outside the city at Whitemarsh.

Lydia slipped down stairs and made her plans for the following day.

She did not dare to take her husband into her confidence, for if her scheme miscarried he would be implicated and she could not bear to bring trouble to him.

What she must do, she must do alone, she told herself. After breakfast she resolutely told her husband that she was going to Frankfort to the mill for some flour.

Now Frankfort was a long distance from her home—five miles. But the brave little Quakeress took her bag and trudged through the snow toward the American camp.

Arriving at Frankfort, Lydia left her bag with the miller and hurried on towards the American encampment. As she was wearily making her way through the heavy snow, some horsemen approached her.

Her heart sank. But when she saw the blue uniforms her spirits rose as she signalled the leader.

Quickly and in very few words she told her story. The officer grasped her hand and hurried back to his headquarters.

Quickly She Told Her Story to the Officer.

Lydia returned to the miller and when she arrived at her home with her heavy bag of flour, she all but fainted with fatigue.

Several days later one of the officers who had met in her house came swaggering into her parlor and demanded to know if anyone had been up on the night of the memorable meeting in her upper chamber.

Lydia demurely lowered her head as she replied that the entire household had gone to bed shortly after eight.

As the officer left her door she heard him say:

"I am altogether at a loss to conceive who could have given the information to Washington of our plans. When we arrived near his army, we found his cannon mounted and trained to blow us to kingdom come and all of his troops ready for action. We had to march back like a parcel of fools."

Lydia bade him good-day and fell to her knees to give thanks for her privilege of being an instrument in saving her country's army.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

What Some Women Do to Make Big Houses Pay.

SOMETIMES serious financial problems face those who own old-fashioned homes which for sentimental reasons they do not want to sell, or which for good and sufficient reasons are not salable. It costs money to pay taxes and keep up these homes.

Persons owning homes on highways are often advised—and many are following the good advice—to turn their homes into tea-rooms during the summer and autumn, and in the winter open their places on order for motorists who wish to give dinner-dances in exclusive places. This is an excellent way to make one's home add to the family income.

A mother and daughter left with a large home and gardens, but with little cash, decided to make a home for a dozen youngsters whose fathers and mothers were obliged to travel part of each year. The children, all below ten years of age, received lessons daily in kindergarten and primary classes. Etiquette, dancing, music, games and so on, were taught. Good board and general care were supplied at fair prices. The first season, four children came. The next season found the house full, while at the opening of the third season there was a waiting list.

Another ambitious woman, left a widow with a big home off the beaten pathway, has turned it into a convalescent home. Three of the most fashionable doctors in a nearby city send their patients to her for rest, quiet, good food and pure air. She employs three resident nurses, a good chef, two chambermaids, two waitresses, a chauffeur, gardener and an errand boy, while she herself acts as bookkeeper and general manager. Her plan is most successful, pays her well, and her house has won fame under these new conditions.

Another woman, owner of a big, old-fashioned house and a garden of large proportions, has done over the roomy lower floor to resemble a clubhouse. Outdoors, she has had four wonderful tennis courts built. As she is near a busy city, she has made the place both exclusive and popular. She serves afternoon teas, cold luncheons and special suppers. Her rooms are in demand for parties in winter and summer. Her tennis courts are frozen over for skating in the winter, and are lighted for skating at night. In summer they are illuminated for night tennis, a novelty that attracts many players. She has good help, a big bus that can meet trains if ordered, and lockers for articles left with her during the season. She has not only cleared her home of debt, but she has improved the property as well, and is making a good income.

Still another woman has turned her home into a dainty shop, where all the cakes, ice creams and fancy dishes are made for a nearby summer hotel. This plan solves a problem for the hotel, and gives them as an advertising feature home-made dainties. Needless to say, this woman is making a good living, not only from the hotel, but from orders from guests after they leave the hotel, for their holiday tables. She has a steady sale for her candies the year around.

One more instance is that of two maiden sisters who have turned their big home into a center for weaving and handcraft articles, including rugs, silk scarfs, materials for dresses and so on. Their stuffs sell at big prices and certain lines are on sale at exclusive shops where they may always be purchased. On the main floor was an immense parlor or ballroom. Extra windows were put in and here the main looms were set up. One sister who is an artist, creates the exclusive designs, while the other sister is business manager. There is a big demand for this stuff and the prices they obtain make their work worth-while.

What one has done, another may do.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes a Very Attractive Evening Gown.

MADAME has been very busy lately making evening gowns for her clients who have come back to the city after summering in the country.

Miss Brown, one of her smart young clients, came in to-day.

"I'm in a most terrific rush for a party frock," she announced, with her usual use of superlatives.

"So much of a hurry as that?" Madame asked.

"The party is tomorrow night. My best friend is announcing her engagement—the result of a Summer affair," she informed Madame.

"Summer affairs don't usually end so seriously," Madame answered with a smile. "But, my dear young lady, that's quite a rush order," she added.

"You simply can't fail me now, Madame," Miss Brown said, in her most coaxing tone. "The only thing more important would be my own announcement party."

"As long as you've promised to let me make your trousseau when the grand event occurs, I suppose I must humor you this time," Madame laughed. "What do you want?"

"I want nothing but anything to leave that to you," Miss Brown answered.

"Fair enough," Madame replied, well pleased on the instant.

"Miss Brown knows how to get the best results from Madame," I whispered to Pam. "She knows that Madame likes nothing more than to be left entirely alone when designing a frock."

"And Miss Brown is very wise," Pam answered. "Miss Brown will get a lovely frock, mark my words."

Pam was right, for by afternoon the seamstresses were at work on a lovely gown of corn-colored chiffon.

"This must be all together by five o'clock," Madame ordered. "A very important client is coming in to have a fitting."

I've never known such record time, but at five Miss Brown came, and she fairly went into ecstasies over the gown.

"It's lovelier than anything I could have dreamed," she said when she saw the sheer thing of corn color, that made her own coloring ten times lovelier.

"I knew corn color would bring out the beautiful tints in your hair," Madame replied with a smile.

Flowers of Contrasting Colors Trim This Corn-Colored Gown for Evening Wear.

The frock was essentially simple. The plain bodice merged into two tiers of chiffon, each one finished in points, and that was all.

"There is to be only one trimming note," Madame announced. "It's something I bought on my last trip abroad."

She went out a minute and brought back a perfect spray of pastel flowers.

"Every one hand-made, of course," she said, as she held it up to Miss Brown's waist.

Miss Brown immediately went into ecstasies again.

"You must wear stockings to match, amber satin slippers and amber beads," Madame told her.

And as I write this diary, I'm wondering if I'll ever be as wonderful a designer as Madame.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21.

Conflicting forces hold sway this day in the planetary scheme of things, but with the important testimonies propitious, the sum total of the day's adventures should be gratifying. Especially does the Solar parallel of the beneficent Venus hold sway, bringing happiness, according to the seers, and fostering affairs of the heart and home. There is a forecast of breaking up of delaying or stubborn conditions, which may lead to favorable change. But other signs warn against reckless use of funds in speculation or other risk. Avoid small worries.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of a year of pleasant and prosperous heart and domestic conditions, as well as important change or travel, but they should handle all expenditures and speculation cautiously. A child born on this day, although quick, clever and persevering, may be disposed to worry over trifles unless it is carefully trained. It should also be well schooled in thrift.

The Duke of Leinster, husband [illegible] Duchess and [illegible] son, went [illegible] in [illegible] town [illegible] Wexford, Ireland, seven years ago [illegible] in order that the young earl might be educated in a manner that will [illegible] him to assume the position that will be his when he succeeds to the dukedom. The mother agreed to the arrangement with the understanding that she be allowed to visit her son frequently.

"I was allowed the expenses of the journey up to the time of the late duke's death and saw my son at regular intervals," she said. "When my husband succeeded to the dukedom, however, payment of those expenses ceased. My income is so small that I am unable to see my boy, altho we are devoted to each other."

The Duchy of Leinster is one of the oldest in Ireland and the holder of the title holds rank as the premier duke of the Irish nobility. The present duke, who was then Lord Edward Fitzgerald, sold his reversionary interest in the estate in 1918, to Sir Harry Mallaby-Deeley, formerly a tailor, for approximately $325,000. Sir Harry agreed to pay him an annuity of about $5,000. Upon his succession to the dukedom, however, the present duke inherited the interest in the estates held by the former duke and now lives in luxury in Ireland while his wife, who has never been received by the duke's family, ekes out a dull existence on the pittance allowed her.
